Rehabilitation Of Fern School Still Undecided

"To be or not to be" is still the question which faces the 27-year-old Fern Elementary School, 1314 Fern Ave., despite the fact that bids for rehabilitation of the buildings were opened last week.

Lowest bid for the rehabilitation was about $45,000 higher than the amount allotted by the state for the job. The Hight Construction Co., Los Angeles, lowest of seven bidders, set $281,000 as the cost of earthquake-proofing and modernizing the structure. The state allotted $236,000 for the project.

Costs of rehabilitating versus the costs of replacing the buildings may again be considered. Assistant Superintendent S. E. Waldrip said that considerable more study will be given to the problem before a decision is reached.

The school does not meet the earthquake-proof standards set up in the Field Act. After long discussions with state officials, it was decided to rehabilitate the two-story school. At the same time, the district planned to modernize lighting, heating, and certain other features of the building.

Schools Make Room for

Students from the Victor Tract, which will become part of the Torrance Unified School District this summer, will attend classes at Torrance High and Meadow Park Elementary School in September, according to school officials.

The Victor area, which will have about 270 school age children this fall, will soon become an official part of the Torrance school district, although the area was annexed to the city of Torrance about two years ago. Victor area children now attend classes in Redondo Beach.

WITH THE opening of Columbia School last month, Meadow Park lost a number of students who formerly attended classes in bungalows there. There will be room for Victor area children at Meadow Park this fall. Elementary children from the Victor area can attend summer school classes at Flavian Elementary School, however.

High school youngsters from the Victor area will attend both regular and summer school sessions at Torrance High School, which will have room for them.

PLANS FOR a new Victor Elementary School, at the southeast corner of Victor and Spencer, are being rushed by the school board, which recently hired an architect. West High School, the city's fourth secondary school, also will be located in the Victor Tract. Officials anticipate a large number of children from the area, which is the site of several proposed housing developments.

Sixty-five Students Take Scholarship Test
 More than 65 students at South High School took the recent National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, Dr. W. B. Magner, Jr., principal, announced today.

The test is the first step in competition for scholarship, provided by 90 groups, he stated. Semifinalists will be announced in the Fall, and after a second examination, finalists will be selected.

Winners will be announced in the Spring of 1960.
